DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

112 S. Union Avenue is a two and a half story three bay L-shaped frame dwelling which is thought to date from the mid 19th century. The house is covered with grey asbestos shingles and has a stone foundation. It faces east on Union Ave. with an almost identical house on the south side and a modern brick apartment complex on the north side.

A three bay above grade porch extends across the front elevation. The porch has a shed roof and a overhanging cornice with knobbed ^{brackets} on it.

The roof is supported by scroll bracketed clustered (four-part) columns on square piers. Porch entrances are in the south bay, front and on the north side.

Windows are arranged evenly on the facade. They contain 6/6 light double hung sash with beaded enframements and are flanked by louvered shutters. The south elevation has only a 6/6 light attic window. A one story rectangular bay addition projects from the center of the north elevation. Covered with a bracketed hipped roof, it has tall 6/6 light side windows and a standard size 6/6 light window in the front.

The main entrance is in the south bay, front elevation. The door consisting of four long pentagonal panels is framed by three light sidelights with vertical panels beneath them. Between the door and the four light transom is a concave dentil band. Other entrances are in the rear.

The house is covered by an asphalt shingled gable flank roof. Two gable roof dormers with 2/2 light sash within curved enframements are on the front. A molded box cornice returns slightly at the gable ends. A brick chimney is on the north side of the roof.

A small vertical board outbuildings is at the rear, and a herringbone brick walkway runs alongs the south elevation.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The Corrieri House (HA-1169) and Sutor Apts (HA_1170) are both two and a half story three bay wide frame Federal style dwellings, believed to have been built just prior to the Civil War. Although the basement of the Sutor Apts. , in having hand hewn beams, gives evidence of being built on an earlier foundation, as its owner believes it is. The Herrick Map of Harford County does not show any builings on these locations in 1858. Both dwelling have one story(first floor) bay additions. The Corrieri House has a four bay porch with a bracketed hipped roof supported by unusual clustered columns on high rectangular bases. Neither of the houses have their original wood siding. Their entrances are identical; having rectangular transoms and sidelights.

Union Ave. runs north to south with the Chesapeake Bay at the southern end. Wide and tree shaded, the street has many architecturally significant buildings of different styles on it; it is the City's most impressive street visually. The northern and middle parts of the avenue are particularly rich in 19th and early 20th century architecture. Whereas,at the southern end (between the hospital and the Bay) most of the houses, interspersed with MD's office,are new.
